

Listening Script

Listening 1 (short texts)

1. What places are we visiting tomorrow? We want you to take us to see old buildings if there are any in the town.
2. I have taken this treatment for five days but it didn't stop my stomach ache. Could you give me another medicine, please?
3. You have created a great engine. Could you please tell us how did you make it?
4. Attention please, the ship will leave in 5 minutes. Prepare yourself and get ready.
5. Oh great, I like things which are made of clay like this. Can you make a bigger one for me, please?

Listening 2 (a text about Ibn Nafis)

Ala-al-din abu Al-Hassan al-Dimashqi, known as Ibn al-Nafis, was an Arab physician who is mostly famous for being the first to describe the blood movement. Ibn Al-Nafis was born in 1213. He lived in Damascus. He studied medicine at the Medical College.

In 1236, Al-Nafis moved to Egypt to work there. He worked at the Al-Nassri Hospital in Egypt. He became the chief of physicians and the Sultan's personal physician. He was a great writer. He wrote different books. His most famous book is The Summary of Law.

Before he died in 1288, he donated his house, library and clinic to the hospital.